MidMo Etsy: Kristin List and Jazi Cat Craft

by BECKY NEEMS on OCTOBER 16, 2013 2:00 PM · NO COMMENTS

Kristin List is not your typical crafter.

Even with a house full of animals and a hectic schedule (she’s a first year graduate Veterinary Medicine student at MU), List makes time to work on crafting items. She creates an array of things such as glass pendants, button cover earrings and wood-mounted clocks to break up her studying and lab sessions. She tries to work on “at least one simple thing a week,” whether it’s an afternoon project or putting some of her pieces on her Etsy site called Jazi Cat Craft. We asked her about her different items included in the shop to get insight on this animal lover’s creative past time in this weeks MidMo Etsy.

List: Ever since I was a little girl I did all kinds of things. From drawing and doodling to making stuff to go on the Christmas tree. I've been making quality crafts since around my junior year of college. They offer so much at the craft studio (at MU). I did ceramics, glass, clay. Glass and clay are more impressive to work with.

VT: What's your favorite thing to make?

List: Everyone has a niche. My niche is trying everything. I'm interested in a lot of things. If I had to pick, I like working with glass. I took a glass fusion class. As long as you get the right kind of glass, it's simple. I glue different pieces of cut glass to glue to the base and add a clear piece. It melts in the kiln and it all fuses together. You're never sure what you're gonna get comes out of kiln. It might come out a different color but that's kinda cool. I have a jar full of to-be-made glass.

VT: Do you still use the craft studio to put everything in a kiln?

List: Yes, I like it go in there and study sometimes. I go in hope of doing something on a study break. They have a dark room studio, pottery wheels and a ceramic studio; they fire the stuff for you. In my undergrad I would go a few times every month. It was nice. I had a break between lunch so I would go there and burn off some energy. That's why I like crafting. It's still active but at the same time therapeutic. The way I make stuff I don't have to really think about it.

VT: When did you start on Etsy?

List: I started in August of this year. I don't have everything on the shop. It's a matter of taking the time to get it on there. I'm making a goal this week of getting three things on the website.

VT: What are you studying as a vet student?

List: As of now, (I'm studying) mixed animal practice; cat and dog, cattle and horses. My three roommates are all first-years. We have our strengths and weaknesses. There's 119 people in the class, so we teach each other.

VT: What else do you make?

List: I make magnets from half marbles and decorative paper, walnut/oak clocks and other jewelry like earrings, necklaces and bracelets. My family owns some property. My dad uses wood that's already fallen down and cuts them up and planes them so they're smooth. I try to make at least one simple thing a week. I take some time off school for myself.
